Dear Mr. Shellenberger,

According to your email the arraignment date was scheduled for September 16, 2019. Regarding the case number you provided is still not listed in Maryland Case Search. We also contacted the Baltimore County Circuit Court and were told that information could not be released regarding the case number.

We were also advised to check the Maryland Case Search for related information. When we advised the operator from the criminal section of the Circuit Court that information was not available on MCS we were advised that in order to obtain any information that would have to be done in person.

It is highly unlikely that it would take over six months for a case to be entered into the data base.

I personally called your office this morning and spoke to the receptionist inquiring about this particular case. Again, there was no information provided regarding the arraignment of the suspect.

The information we requested is considered public information that is important to the citizens of Baltimore County. To deny anyone access to criminal activity that may jeopardize the safety of the citizens of Baltimore County in our opinion would be an egregious offense.

For your office to continue this possible cover-up is unconscionable.

We also believe that this case may involve the issue of Baltimore County being a sanctuary jurisdiction.

If you wish to make a comment please do so by the close of the next business day which would be September 18, 2019.

Sincerely,

Buzz Beeler

Dear Mr. Shellenberger,

Regarding the recent indictments against Carlos Danielle Gonzales-Rabines, there is no record on the suspect as per the Maryland Case Search website.

Our question is, was Mr. Gonzales-Rabines physically arrested based on the charges contained in the indictment?

Could it be that your office has no idea where this Mr. Gonzales-Rabines is? In your response regarding the indictments, there was no mention of the suspect being apprehended were arrested for this serious criminal offense.

Please respond to this query by the end of today's normal business hours. We are planning a follow-up article sometime this weekend.

Thank you for your time and anticipated cooperation in this matter.

Regards,
